

Church-wide Incorporation of the Online Quiet Time with Hayes Wicker

Highlights

- The Quiet Time diary is a tool that you can put into the hands of staff, adults, children and teens.
- It gives stability to a church.
- Promotion begins in late summer and then twice a year there is a push to get the folks involved in quiet time, either on line or with the written journal.
- Sunday school classes or small groups often use the text for that day as the lesson.
- Mentors often use it with small groups or one on one.
- Youth pastors often refer to it when they teach, and parents can use it to disciple their children and teens.
- It's not just fast food but systematically and regularly getting people into the word of God.
- What is more important than the great commission, not only making disciples but also teaching them all that Christ has commanded?
- All of us need a track to run on or a disciplined approach, and the quiet time diary is a way to do that.
